The certification is based on the outstanding results achieved in our recent Great Place To Work employee survey. The overall result is an acknowledgement of the partnership we have built with our employees and we believe it reflects the commitment and enthusiasm of our nearly 500 employees world wide. It confirms that focusing on employee empowerment and autonomy at work builds the trust necessary to have a great place to work. We will use the result to celebrate what have achieved so far and continue to re-think 'usual practice', continuously looking for improvements. We are proud to call Gard a Great Place to Work and thank our employees for their continued support.
