BEACHERT RESIDENCE AT JUMBY BAY WELCOMES CHEF DREW

Michelin-starred restaurant experience
meets the flavours and warmth of Antigua

JUMBY BAY, ANTIGUA – Beachert Residence at Jumby Bay is delighted to announce that Chef Andrew "Drew" Persaud – Chef Drew – will be the private chef for all rentals at the residence.

A true culinary talent, Chef Drew brings an impressive combination of Caribbean and Indian influences, international experience and the precision of European fine dining.

His career has taken him from the kitchens of Antigua to Switzerland, where he worked at the Michelin-starred Belvedere Seerestaurant, gaining invaluable experience in the standards, discipline and attention to detail of Michelin-level cuisine.

Here at home, Chef Drew is already a familiar face. Many locals will know him from his appearances on Antigua's morning television, where his natural warmth and passion for cooking are every bit as evident as his culinary talent.

Now guests of Beachert Residence will have the opportunity to experience Chef Drew's cooking throughout their stay.

From leisurely breakfasts and fresh island lunches to sunset dining, elegant dinners and special celebrations, Chef Drew will create menus tailored to each group, combining the flavours of the Caribbean with his international training and personal style.

"We are delighted to welcome Chef Drew to Beachert Residence. He is a true talent, and we are incredibly excited for our guests to experience his cooking. His international fine-dining background, love of Caribbean flavours and wonderfully warm personality make him a perfect fit for Beachert Residence and the relaxed luxury of Jumby Bay."

Chef Drew's arrival brings another exceptional element to the Beachert Residence experience, outstanding private dining, thoughtfully prepared and enjoyed in one of Antigua's most beautiful settings.
